How terrorists recruit Russian women for ISIS

22-year-old Elena Tretyakova from Moscow met Arsen Hanikov from Nalchik online. She started to call her new online friend a prince since he was so different from the majority of men. Lena fell in love at once. She saw Arsen only as her future husband and her new life as a fairy tale.

“Danger was close. I was inches away from death. Not only mine, but other people's as well. Innocent civilians could have been killed by my suicide.”

Elena Tretyakova

Ruslan is an ISIS recruiter who plays a terrible game. He can read people very quickly and literally hypnotizes women with his charm.

“He is one of the most interesting characters I've ever played. Ruslan has individual approach to every girl and they all are ready to follow him. While watching our film you will take a short course for potential victims – you will observe Ruslan and learn to identify such dangerous people in life.”

Nikolay Fomenko as Lena's father

“The theme of the series is very relevant nowadays. I myself have children around their age. So I often think about terrible things happening worldwide. We are all very relaxed right now. And this film will prepare us, if not for a fight, then for the danger that surrounds us – for terrorism, in particular. It is important to be attentive to your loved ones, especially children, it will help to reduce the number of such stories.”

Valentin Emelyanov
scriptwriter

“The Caliphate is not something distant on the other side of the TV screen. It is dangerous for everybody. Not only ideological fanatics» can end up among the extremists, but any modern girl can be manipulated by somebody from the other side and find herself on the edge.”

Feruza Ruzieva
as Amina

Nikolay Fomenko as Lena's father

“The scriptwriter of the series, Valentin Yemelyanov, warns the viewers:
